

This Week's D6 Family Theme: Eternal Life

Trying to fathom eternity is difficult for our finite minds. Our entire lives are measured in seconds, minutes, days, and years. For something to have no beginning and no end is incomprehensible to us. It's like trying to imagine the size of the universe or the largest number in existence-you can't. And those of us who are Christians have been given eternal life with Christ. look up information on outer space and different galaxies with your family. Our world is so huge, but God is bigger than all of it. Remind your family that we get to spend an unfathomable eternity with Him.

For the Ladies

Has anyone told you lately how amazing you are? It's about time you heard it again. I hear you saying, "Who me?" I'm saying right back, "Yep, you." The one doing your thing, making your difference, being a glorious mess that God can use.

You...
getting back up when you fall down, trying again when it doesn't work out, doing the hard, the different, taking those steps of faith.

You...
wonderfully made just like you are, and on your way to becoming all He made you to be.

I see you squirming in that chair, squinting a little at the screen and thinking, "That's for other women but I'm not so sure about me."

Believe it, receive it, it's true!
This is for YOU!
Just a reminder that Mother's day is coming. Sunday, May 11. God Bless You all.
